PLANNING BOARD HOLDS SESSION TUESDAY EVENING

The Bethel Planning Board met Tuesday evening, March 26, at the Selectmen's Office. There was discussion of a series of articles to be prepared for publication to clear up some of the misunderstanding of the Zoning Ordinance. The first article published in today's Citizen will cover the question of Building Permits.

A number of proposals were discussed that would make changes in the Zoning Ordinance. It was decided to submit three of these proposals to the Selectmen to be placed as articles in the warrant for the special town meeting to be held at a later date.

These three proposals made changes in the Industrial Zone. The first proposal is to permit mobile homes as a permitted use in the Industrial Zones provided they are not located on the same lot as an industry.

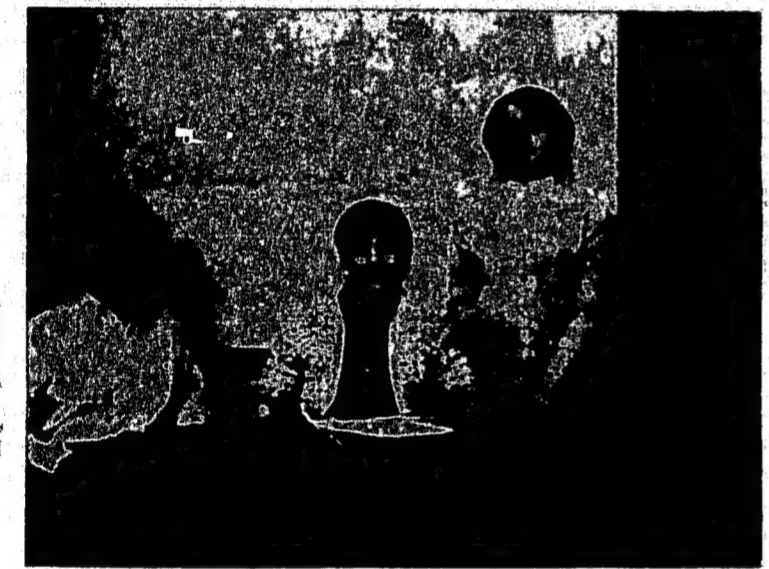

The second proposal is to allow under permitted uses in the Industrial Zone extension and/or improvement of single family dwellings that were existing before March 6, 1967, so long as they remain as single family dwellings.

The third proposal is to permit gasoline service stations in the Industrial Zone.

All of these proposals will be voted on at a special town meeting.

Since there are additional proposals that must be considered, the Planning Board will meet again on April 4 at 7:30 at the Selectmen's Office.

Homemaker of Tomorrow

Miss Susan Elizabeth Huston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett F. Huston of Simpson Road, Saco, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Morris, Greenwood City, ranked first among 4,133 senior girls in 133 of the state's high schools as Maine's Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow. Susan is an 18 year old senior at Thornton Academy. She will receive a $1,500 scholarship from General Mills.

Susan is eligible for honors as All American Homemaker of Tomorrow. The winner of this award will be determined after an expense paid tour of Williamsburg, Va., Washington, D. C., and Minneapolis, Minn., for state winners, each accompanied by a faculty advisor. First place winner will receive another $3,500 in scholarship money.

Miss Huston has been on her school's honor roll for four years and is a member of the National Honor Society. She also has won a National Merit Letter of Commendation.

Susan plans to study art education or interior decorating at Boston University or the University of Maine. Her hobbies are playing the guitar, painting, handicrafts, sewing, knitting and participating in individual sports. She says the successful homemaker should have "that most important ability to create and maintain a warm and friendly atmosphere in the home."

Susan and her sisters, Janice, 14 and Barbara, 11, are frequent visitors here at the home of their grandparents.

On March 20th at 8:22 a. m., spring marched into New England lovely as of old.

In the newspapers there were heartbreaks and uncertainty or occasionally a vague feeling of fear. A fear of the ravaging of this good earth given to man to nourish him—a place where he stops so short a time.

Spring again causes the soul to stir, to sing, and to take on a fresh meaning. It is a time to remember that little patch of green under a tree or a pond gradually shedding its winter coat.

Why are we thrilled anew? The sun is warmer and the sky bluer. We have a new interpretation of life. We look up and forward to a new dawn, up at the bird in the elm rather than being shouldered bent picking our way along an icy walk. We throw our heads back to observe the maple. Is it budding? We dream of the time of the last vanishing snows in the woods, of a country road and wide open fields. There is the thought of the red sunset, purpling sky and twilight on the hills.

It happens every year, about now, yet there is always a fresh meaning.

In this time of dreads, alarms, wonderings, and worries we find hope; new hope and new faith because an old, yet ever new thing is taking place around us. Listen—what power sound has upon memories. The song of the robin, the flutter of wings, the call of the crow, the chorus of the black birds as they fill an elm tree. Then from out the marsh land, the Pre-e-e of the red wing. You just know he is strutting or spreading his wings to show the world their brightness. How proud he is!

"First of the moving vanguards, In the front of the spring you come, Where flooded waters sparkle And streams in the twilight hum." (B. Carmen)

We are reminded again of the varied and beautiful scenery of this—our New England; reminding that no land in the world is more richly blessed than this—our America.

Nature is a great teacher and has for everyone a beautiful spiritual lesson.

Spring will all its glory remind us "God's in His Heaven All's right with the world." (Browning)

MILTON CONCORD FOND ROAD

Maude Brown, Corres.

After the middle of March: It's been a week of watching the birds and to see if the water is rising with snow melting and the rain.

For the Roberts family a convalescent week also going to the doctor's with a sore mouth, throat, stiff neck.

When I your correspondent decide to see Dr. Young in Bethel, right away I am better, that's how good he is.

Bettina Roberts scraped her knee on the far road, took it to Dr. Young, Thursday.

Saturday P. M., Ernest Clifford of Norway called on his mother, Maude Brown, with his wife Joyce and Carol Jean. Of course they called on the Roberts family.

Callers at the Roger Farnums
 the past week were Mrs. Turner, Mrs. Hammond and Mrs. Bradford of West Paris. Mr. and Mrs.
 Edward Snow called Thursday and went with Mr. and Mrs. Far-num to Locke Mills to fish and game supper and meeting. Also Mr. and Mrs. Snow visited the Farnums Saturday. Mr. Farnum received a letter from his son, Glenwood, in New Jersey, that he is feeling good now and is working in Camden in a warehouse which is better work for him than where he worked in the paper mill. He was very ill last year, in and out of the hospital.

 Roger entertained his guests with old tunes on his violin.

The Glorious Springtime

Spring is a glorious season,
When the buds are bursting in bloom;

And the cold dread of the winter
Has vanished away in the gloom.

The grass is putting out its green blades
From its roots under the ground.

The birds that flew to the Southland
Are chattering and flying around.

Frogs are starting their croaking,
And the smells are beginning to run.

Already the brooks are overflowing
And the fish will be rising-some.

It's great to get up in the morning
As the sun peeks over the hill;
Go out doors and breathe the sweet ozone
Until your soul becomes calm and still.

The birds singing in the lilacs
And the sunlight spreads o'er
the trees

Makes you think with admiration
Of God's work, coming out of deep freeze.

O, Spring is a glorious season!
All its praises can not be told;
But you rise early in the morning
And watch all its beauty unfold.

BOOKS OF THE AGE FOR ALL AGES TO BE DISPLAYED AT CPB

Four hundred new library books for boys and girls—which have great interest for adults as well—will be on display at Crescent Park School, Bethel, from April 1-5 during the hours of 9 to 11:30.

Brought together in an organized exhibit, here are the books that delight with their magic and charm, instruct and inform, or reflect and interpret, for our better understanding, the changing world we live in today. School systems across the country recognize this annual exhibit as the one complete and dependable reviewing-evaluating resource available to them. Fifty leading publishers are involved in a collection which spreads over some 65 subject classifications.

The exhibit is covered by a curriculum-related, annotated and fully indexed (by subject, title and author) catalogue which is free to teachers, librarians and administrators. Another of its features is a special listing of books which are eligible for purchase under the National Defense Education Act. Both books and catalogues are related to each other by a numerical numbering system; in a matter of seconds therefore, you can be looking at the books of your interest.

Ranging from Picture Books and Easy Books at the Primary level, to an assortment of titles for intermediate grades—such as Reading and Literature, Social Studies, Science, Activities, Art and Reference—there are books in non-fiction and fiction to meet every need, every interest. For teachers and librarians, who want to keep abreast of the best in new instructional materials, the exhibit is indispensable.

Books on Exhibit, the company which organizes and supplies the exhibit, is a national exhibiting operation that neither solicits nor fills orders. Its free service, representing the selected books of the important publishers industry wide, both large and small, has been praised by school personnel over the years in superlatives for meeting efficiently a universal and basic need.
